

Sumatran Tiger 7 Fun Facts...

Stripes of a tiger are unique to the animal as are fingerprints to humans.

In the early 1900's, there were around 100,000 tigers in the wild. Today, an estimated 3,000 to 4,500 exist in the wild.

A group of Tigers is known as a streak.

Tigers are meat eaters and can survive for a long time without food, but when they do eat they can have up to 40 pounds of food in one meal!

The Sumatran Tiger is the smallest of all tigers.

Tigers have the largest canine teeth of all land roaming carnivores.

The are great swimmers and have webbed paws that give them extra swimming speed.
